Working Student (m/w/d) Data Integration & Quality - XING Jobs

You have an interest in digital businesses as well as quality management and a basic understanding of HTML and SQL? Then become part of our team. For us, jobseekers and their challenge to find a fitting job are our focus. You will help the Jobs Inventory team to integrate new job postings and increase the quality of our job market.

A challenging role:

- You take on tasks in an interesting working environment with the special XING spirit. You support us with improving the XING job market regarding its quality and quantity.
- You use inhouse tools to integrate external sources into our job market, conduct quality evaluations and thus improve the jobseeker experience.

- Next to the daily tasks you will get the chance to support the team by doing own analysis regarding the job posting inventory and support in new projects.

A convincing background:

- Students from all disciplines are welcome to apply. It is important however, that you will study for at least 12 more months. Additionally, you should be able to speak German at the level C1 or higher.
- Ideally you have come in contact with HTML, XPATH and SQL already.
- With your analytical mindset and your ability to think out of the box, you complete tasks fast and reliably.
- You have already gained some experience in other companies or you want to set foot in a professional environment.

An inspiring environment:

With offices in the centre of Hamburg, you'll be immersed in an innovative working environment that includes flexible working hours and lots of opportunities to unleash your skills and acquire new ones.

The young professionals community offers you various ways for you to develop yourself and exchange with colleagues from all disciplines throughout the company. Not only that, you'll also enjoy offer free organic fruit, drinks, table football tables, restaurant vouchers, a ProfiTicket public transport ticket, and more...
